ABSTRACT

This book provides the responses received from 155 colleges and universities concerning the schools' admission trends, their student admissions for the 1992-93 academic year, and what traits colleges are looking for in the 1993 incoming class. The book alphabetically lists the colleges along with their responses. The information contained for each school includes: (1) the number of applications received and accepted, (2) tuition, (3) the percentage of students receiving financial aid, (4) the deadline for 1993 admissions, (5) admission requirements for international students, (6) how students at each school view the cost of college, (7) new scholarships for first year students, (8) the average financial aid package, (9) how each school rates the federal financial aid system, and (10) financial aid tips for students. At the end of each profile the school address, contact person, and phone numbers for more information are provided. (GLR)
